Remarks of the Chief Electoral Officer

I have had the honour and the privilege to serve in the role of Chief Electoral Officer for three Provincial General Elections. This role has been the culmination of a 24-year career in election administration.

I have seen the technology increase exponentially: from the days when enumerators armed with "restaurant pads" typed up their own List of Electors on manual typewriters to our current practice of remote online data entry using a comprehensive election management system.

Societal norms have similarly changed at a rapid pace. Posting of Lists of Electors on telephone poles is no longer the accepted practice that it once was. The requirement of acquiring and safeguarding the personal information used to create Lists of Electors has added a whole new dimension to the complexity of election planning.

Maintenance of the Register of Electors has become a focal point of election administration and is currently the largest functional area within the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer. Given the viability of the traditional door-to-door enumeration process, that trend is likely to continue.

While technology has changed, the overarching principles that make my role so rewarding have not. The focus on inclusion, fairness, integrity and effectiveness continue to guide our service delivery to support the democratic participation of all Albertans. I am proud to say that services have continued to improve and currently provide electors with a broader array of voting opportunities than ever before. The Election Act provides a means for all interested electors to participate in selecting their Members of the Legislative Assembly.

Means of communicating with electors continue to expand. In 2012, election communications included social media along with direct mail notices, newspaper advertisements, radio announcements, website advertisements, telephone call centres and email response systems, while maintaining personal, walk-in service through returning officers' offices.

Expanded communications designed to remove administrative barriers may have had an effect on voter turnout: for the first time since 1993, the voter turnout increased. This reverses a trend that is prevalent across virtually all mature democracies and Albertans are to be commended for their role in this significant achievement. Special thanks are due to the registered political parties, candidates, official agents, scrutineers and all others who helped to engage the electorate.

The demands of my role are met through the combined efforts of thousands of dedicated Albertans, including a small but talented group of permanent staff at Elections Alberta. They worked tirelessly to prepare for and support the 2011 enumeration and 2012 election process, and I owe each of them a debt of gratitude for their professionalism and commitment.

They are joined by staff in our partner agencies who assisted with the provision of data, development of communication resources, support of information technology systems and staffing of public call centres. Our electoral events added to their already full-time responsibilities and they rose to the challenge.

Returning officers and their staff members were tasked with the formidable challenge of conducting electoral events from the front lines. The effective conduct of the election is a tribute to their commitment in preparing for the event and managing the numerous challenges that each day brought. As always, I was struck by their work ethic and respect for the electors served.

In addition, I would like to formally acknowledge the thousands of Albertans who took time from their busy schedules to serve their neighbours in one of the many positions that are essential to the smooth administration of the election. I am grateful for their willingness to accept these jobs that truly put democratic principles into action.

I am pleased and proud to have served my province in the company of this fine group of Albertans.

O. Brian Fjeldheim
Chief Electoral Officer

2011 PROVINCIAL GENERAL ENUMERATION

Overview

The Register of Electors is an electronic database containing elector and address information, which is continuously updated and used to prepare Lists of Electors, when required. It was originally established in 1996 and has been updated since the 2001 General Election through elector-initiated requests, enumeration activities and use of information provided by several public agencies, in accordance with sections 13.1 and 13.2 of the Election Act.

The public agencies that provide data for use in updating the Register of Electors include:

- Elections Canada, which provides data from the National Register of Electors, with updates from Canada Revenue Agency (income tax returns), Citizenship and Immigration and Canada Post's National Change of Address files
- Service Alberta, which provides address updates for registered electors who hold Alberta driver's licences and Alberta identification cards
- Service Alberta, which also provides vital statistics data to facilitate the deletion of deceased electors
- Alberta Health, which provides address updates for registered electors covered by the health insurance plan

These updates were complemented by data collected by Voterlink, the secure online registration system introduced in November 2007, which is available at www.voterlink.ab.ca. The system allows electors to add and update their own elector information to ensure accuracy and timeliness of personal information on the Lists of Electors.

The Register was further updated through a door-to-door enumeration in the period from August 26 to September 19, 2011 under the authority of section 13.1(2)(a) of the Election Act. Approximately 5,500 enumerators were recruited, trained and supervised in the door-to-door collection of enumeration data from electors across the province.

Following the integration of available updates, Lists of Electors were provided to registered political parties, in accordance with section 18(1)(b) of the Election Act. Lists of Electors were made available in October 2011, in both paper and electronic format.

Key Dates

The enumeration calendar highlighted the following key dates:

May to June 2010	Recruitment of returning officers on proposed electoral division boundaries
September 2010 to May 2011	Preparation of the mapping resources and Lists of Electors
May 2011	Distribution of Lists of Electors to registered political parties
December 2, 2010	Enactment of new electoral divisions through revisions to the Electoral Divisions Act
August 26 to September 19, 2011	Door-to-door enumeration across Alberta
September 24, 2011	Revisions to the Lists of Electors accepted by returning officers
September 20 to October 6, 2011	Data entry of updated elector records
October 2011	Distribution of Lists of Electors to registered political parties

Appointment of Returning Officers

The Chief Electoral Officer appointed returning officers following a legislative change to the appointment process. These election officers were hired for the province's 87 electoral divisions through open, merit-based competitions.

Preparation of the Mapping Resources and Lists of Electors

Elector information was collected based on the boundaries described in the Electoral Divisions Act. The Act was amended following the independent review of the 2009/2010 Alberta Electoral Boundaries Commission and the December 2, 2010 acceptance of the revised electoral division boundaries by the Legislative Assembly. Following this process, Alberta's electoral map showed an increase of four electoral divisions, for a total of 87 electoral divisions across the province.

The new electoral division boundaries defined by the Electoral Divisions Act necessitated a major review and readjustment of Alberta's electoral map. All electoral division boundaries were changed from those in effect at the 2008 General Election. Following training in September 2010, returning officers received their new electoral division maps. They reviewed over 5,650 polling subdivisions and revised them, where necessary. The majority of polling subdivision boundaries had to be revised due to changed electoral division boundaries and growth within the province.

Polling subdivision boundaries were established to best accommodate the majority of electors on polling day. Issues such as clarity, accessibility, distances, normal travel patterns and polling place potential were considered.

Returning officers were also responsible for the review, and necessary revision, of Lists of Electors generated by Elections Alberta on the new polling subdivision boundaries. This was a major challenge due to significant growth and the inconsistency of addressing formats across the province. Ongoing efforts will focus on the consolidation of newly created civic addresses and legal land descriptions, or other geographic descriptions in rural areas, to maintain the accuracy and currency of address information in the Register of Electors over time.

The review of mapping resources and Lists of Electors concluded in May 2011. At that time, revised polling subdivision maps and Lists of Electors based on the reconfigured boundaries were provided to registered political parties in accordance with section 18(1)(c) of the Election Act.

Timeline

Returning officers received enumeration training in July 2011. They began to plan for management of the activity and recruited staff following their training. Returning officers showed a great deal of ingenuity in recruitment: local service agencies, social clubs, community groups, employee associations, religious organizations and staff from previous electoral events were contacted. Returning officers with a surplus of personnel provided names to their colleagues to ensure a full staff complement in all electoral divisions.

Approximately 5,500 enumerators collected information from over 1.2 million residences in the province between August 26 and September 19, 2011. In some areas, enumerators achieved 100% coverage: contact was made at every residence in the polling subdivision.

Electors who were missed during the enumeration had additional opportunities to be added to the Register of Electors. They were able to contact the enumerator responsible for their area or could contact the returning officer directly to be added to the Register on September 24, 2011, the revisions date for the enumeration.

Data entry of the updated elector information commenced immediately following the conclusion of the enumeration. Over 800 data entry operators used secure Internet connections to update the Register of Electors from the hard-copy enumeration records over a 17-day period from September 20 to October 6, 2011. Enumerators and returning officers reviewed the data input to ensure that all elector information had been entered accurately and consistently.

Conduct of the Enumeration

Register of Electors information was supplied to enumerators on preprinted enumeration records for use in confirming, revising, deleting and adding elector information. In new areas and other situations where previous elector information was not contained in the Register, available civic address information was preprinted onto the enumeration records. This reduced the requirement for information collection and helped to ensure accuracy and thorough coverage.

Enumerators carried a translation sheet which explained the purpose of their visit in fourteen different languages. This proved extremely useful in overcoming language barriers to collect information.

The enumeration goal was to make contact with 100% of the residences across the province and to collect elector information from 90% of electors. The variance in the targets established for contact takes into account the fact that a certain percentage of electors choose not to be included on the List of Electors. This was a lofty goal, given the increasing challenges of conducting a door-to-door enumeration in this province.

Data was collected by enumerators who contacted each residence at least three times, if necessary. Electors who were not contacted were left a “We Missed You” card asking them to contact the enumerator to arrange for inclusion in the Register of Electors. After September 19, electors who were away during the enumeration also had the option of updating their elector record online using Voterlink.

Thanks to the dedication and commitment of 5,500 enumerators and the returning officers who supported them, residents of over 86% of the province’s 1.5 million residences received a visit from an enumerator. In many cases, residences were visited on several occasions in an effort to collect personal information from electors (i.e. those who are Canadian citizens and who, as of October 3, 2011, were at least 18 years of age, and ordinarily resident in Alberta for six months). The October 2011 List of Electors contained information from 2,066,026 electors.

Electors who provided information were left a “Thank You” card which advised them of the purpose of the data collection, including a notice that their information could be shared with municipal and federal electoral agencies for electoral purposes. The cards also provided the returning officer's name and telephone number to give electors the opportunity to ask questions or voice concerns.

Some electors did not provide information to enumerators, to the returning officer during the revisions day, or online via Voterlink. The "We Missed You" card left at the door clearly explained that their information would not appear in the Register nor on subsequent Lists of Electors, until the elector provided the necessary information. An exception was made in 331 polling subdivisions, where the enumeration coverage was significantly below the 90% target. In those cases, electors' names were not deleted and appeared on the List of Electors. A detailed breakdown of the contact rate, by electoral division, appears in Table 1 entitled Contacts, which follows.

Electors who were missed and had their names removed from the Register of Electors had the option to register online or add their names to the List of Electors during the subsequent election period, or in conjunction with voting.

Challenges

Returning officers were collectively responsible to recruit, train and manage over 5,500 enumerators. Recruitment was a greater challenge than in the past, possibly due, in part, to the high employment rate in the province. Mobilizing the necessary workforce was assisted through an ongoing recruitment campaign disseminated by mail, radio, website, newspapers and direct mail, where necessary. Ultimately, success was the result of the creativity and commitment of returning officers, who often found personal community contacts to be the best source for recruitment.

For the first time, returning officers reported a significant challenge relating to the retention of enumerators. Some returning officers had to replace up to 40 of their enumerators. Approximately 845 enumerators vacated their positions, often citing the reason for leaving as the difficulties they experienced in contacting electors, the lengthy driving times in rural areas and other competing personal priorities. This placed additional strain on the returning officers who were required to recruit additional staff, deliver additional training sessions and manage enumerators who were new to the process; all within the time constraints of the enumeration period.

Supervision and support of enumerators was another major challenge. Each returning officer was responsible for up to 95 enumerators, and was required to assess the quality and progress of the data collection throughout the enumeration. Managing this staff complement, particularly in rural electoral divisions where enumerators could be working in centres up to 420 kilometres away, demanded exceptional commitment and time management. Data collection has become increasingly demanding over time, since consistency, completeness and accuracy of various address components are essential to allow for future electronic updates. Enumerators were responsible for collecting more information than in past enumerations. Birth date and gender, along with previous and current address and phone number data is needed, in addition to electors' names.

Ensuring the personal security of both electors and enumerators was another challenge. Each enumerator was provided with unique identification, which was designed to deter unauthorized duplication and to be easily visible to electors. In the interest of elector protection, all enumerators completed a security statutory declaration to confirm they had not been convicted of an indictable offence in the past ten years. Enumerators were provided with specific training on managing the risks while working alone in the community and were instructed to avoid potential high-risk situations. As part of this process, enumerators were required to notify a responsible person of their departure and expected arrival time, and the route to be followed. Regulated standards for persons working alone will be a factor in determining the viability of future enumerations.

Ensuring the security of electors' personal information was another challenge. Preprinted enumeration records contained electors' addresses and names and sometimes included electors' phone numbers, genders and/or birth dates. In times gone by, provision of this type of information was a generally accepted practice. Over time, and with the advent of identity theft, increased attention to the security of personal information discourages some electors from providing information that is necessary for maintenance of the Register of Electors.

Proper use and protection of electors' personal information was emphasized in the enumeration training and the printed resources provided to all enumerators. In spite of the training and ongoing supervision, records from three polling subdivisions were lost while in the custody of enumerators.

Where records were lost, Elections Alberta immediately hand-delivered notices to the electors who were affected and made arrangements for credit monitoring, on request. The police, the public and Alberta's Information and Privacy Commissioner were notified of the loss. The value of personal information and the inherent challenges in safeguarding elector records for over 6,300 polling subdivisions will be another factor in determining the viability of future enumerations.

Over time, it has become increasingly difficult to contact electors, sometimes because of busy schedules and living environments, and sometimes due to security concerns. Some housing developments, including condominiums, apartments and gated communities, have a responsibility to restrict access to residents. Although section 29 of the Election Act authorizes enumerator access, it can be difficult to contact facility managers to arrange for this access.

The enumeration process is a very effective method to collect timely, accurate elector information. The door-to-door visits ensure that no one is overlooked. At the same time, inherent difficulties associated with a door-to-door enumeration are increasing as time goes on. It becomes more challenging with each enumeration to recruit a sufficient number of enumerators and to obtain information from electors. Many electors are reluctant to provide information in spite of the advertising that takes place and the identification carried by enumerators.

It will be necessary to thoroughly assess the viability of future door-to-door enumerations and to examine alternate data collection methods for the preparation of future Lists of Electors.

Communications

A broad communications strategy was implemented to support the enumeration process. Five main communication channels were used:

- Mail
- Radio
- Newspaper
- Local signage
- Internet

An enumeration notice was mailed to all residences in Alberta to encourage participation. In addition, signs were placed prominently in neighbourhoods throughout the province announcing that "a provincial enumerator will visit your home". In recognition of the importance of public cooperation, Albertans were asked to "please help us build a better List of Electors".

Radio was used as another means of notification. Thirty six-stations were used, and a total of 1,091 advertisements were run across the province. As with the mail-outs and the neighbourhood signs, the radio ads sought to inform electors and encourage their participation.

In accordance with the Election Act, advertisements were placed in newspapers of general circulation to inform electors of the enumeration. Albertans were notified of the enumeration timelines and the purpose of the data collection. The advertisements included a telephone number for electors to contact with questions or concerns. Toll-free access was available during the enumeration to assist electors outside of the Edmonton calling area.

Key information was also made available on the Elections Alberta website. Returning officers' contact information was web-posted to provide electors with their local contact.

Points of Interest

Approximately 719,223 electors indicated that their address and personal information held in the Register was correct and could be confirmed without any changes. In effect, only 35% of overall Register data was correct.

588,298 electors remained at the same address but indicated that changes were needed to their personal information. Enumerators collected additional information or recorded changes to names, dates of birth, telephone numbers, addresses and genders.

758,505 electors were added to the Register. They included electors who had moved, turned eighteen, attained the citizenship or residency requirements, and those who had been missed during the 2008 target enumeration process.

598,944 electors were deleted from the address at which they were recorded in the Register.

Basic personal information is essential to identify electors in order to revise the Register electronically. Elector records can be revised only if electors can be identified, using basic personal information such as birth date and gender. This information is provided by electors on an optional basis. Following the conclusion of the enumeration, 94.4% of electors had provided birth dates and 96.5% had provided gender information (a detailed breakdown by electoral division appears in Table 3 entitled Information Contained in the Register of Electors). This information is used internally for administrative purposes, and does not appear on Lists of Electors. Appropriate safeguards have been established to ensure that private information is kept strictly confidential.

It is essential to collect both a physical (geographic) and mailing address, if different than the physical address. The former is needed to determine the polling subdivision in which the elector resides: that location will determine the List of Electors on which the elector's name will appear. The latter is needed to enable the distribution of where-to-vote information to the elector via mail. Following the enumeration, 90% of electors had provided complete physical and mailing address information.

Telephone numbers, which are also provided on an optional basis, were provided for 81.2% of electors. This information is very useful in verification of Register information, especially where the distance between residences is significant.

2012 PROVINCIAL GENERAL ELECTION

Overview

The election was conducted on the boundaries defined in the Electoral Divisions Act, which was proclaimed into effect along with the issuance of the writs for the Provincial General Election. Electoral division boundaries had been adjusted following the independent review of the 2009/2010 Alberta Electoral Boundaries Commission and the December 2, 2010 acceptance of the revised electoral division boundaries by the Legislative Assembly. Order in Council 150 proclaimed the new electoral division boundaries in force on March 26, 2012.

Order in Council 149/2012 dissolved the Twenty-seventh Legislative Assembly on March 26, 2012 and Order in Council 150/2012 signalled the commencement of the Provincial General Election by ordering the Chief Electoral Officer to issue Writs of Election to each of the 87 returning officers listed on page 75 of this report, pursuant to section 40 of the Election Act.

Communications

A comprehensive communications program was implemented to reach electors, of all ages, from all parts of the province. The communications strategy expanded to include communications media that have gained broad public usage since the 2008 Provincial General Election.

Pre-election Outreach

Groups that have experienced communication barriers in participating in the election were identified well in advance of the election. A pre-election communications strategy was developed to obtain input from these groups on how to bridge the communications gap and ensure the timely delivery of necessary information using their existing networks. The fixed election period established through recent legislative amendments facilitated the timely release of information.

For the first time, interested electors could sign up to receive an email notice of voting dates, Special Ballot information, and a link to find polling place information and contact information for sources of additional assistance. This service was particularly useful to electors who expected to be out of the province during the election period, since notice was provided on the day the Writs of Election were issued, leaving time for the acquisition and completion of a Special Ballot.

Specific pre-election outreach targeted the following groups:

- Canadian Forces: The Judge Advocate General circulated an internal document outlining requirements and best methods for members of the Canadian Forces to participate in the election. The Judge Advocate General website was linked to Elections Alberta's main page for additional information.
- Disability Community: An information sheet outlining voting procedures and new election materials was distributed to various organizations within this group, including the Alberta Council of Disability Services and Independent Living Canada.

- Ethno-cultural communities and new Canadians: A letter providing information on how eligible electors can participate in the election was sent to cultural and community centres across the province. Electors were directed to posters in polling stations, which explained elector eligibility in six languages to assist those who were unfamiliar with the voting process.

- First Nations: A full time liaison facilitated communications with First Nations communities. First Nations communities were asked if a poll on their reserve land was desired, and were offered the opportunity of identifying election officers.

  There are approximately 100 reserves in Alberta, 72 of which have a resident elector population. Of these, seven are designated as remote areas and voted by Special Ballot. Of the remaining 65 reserves, 42 opted to have a poll on site.

- Homeless: Shelter administrators received an information packet to assist electors who received services at homeless shelters. Packets included letters of attestation that could be provided to homeless electors by shelter administrators to use as identification for the purpose of voting.

- Incarcerated: Information on obtaining Special Ballots was provided to Correctional Services for distribution to inmates of correctional facilities. Letters of attestation were provided to serve as inmates' identification, when signed by a facility administrator.

- Law Enforcement Agencies: Notification was sent to law enforcement officials regarding candidates' and campaign workers' statutory rights of access to multi-unit dwellings.

- Multi-unit Dwellings: A notice was provided through the apartment and condo associations to the majority of managers/owners of apartments and condos. Liaisons were hired to assist campaigns that had difficulties arranging for access to multi-unit dwellings.

- Post-secondary: With the aid of student unions and student associations, information booths were placed on 29 campuses. Staff at these booths were available to help students register to vote, request a Special Ballot and find the appropriate channels for additional information. Two campuses with a small student population had resource material placed on-site.

  Polling stations were established in five post-secondary institutions to serve all institutions with a resident population of more than 450.

- Seniors: An information sheet outlining voting procedures and new election materials was distributed to various organizations within this stakeholder group including Seniors and Community Supports, Canadian Snowbird Association, CARP (formerly know as the Canadian Association of Retired Persons) and Edmonton Seniors Coordinating Council.

- Work Camps: Companies managing 86 work camps across the province were given Special Ballot posters and information cards to distribute to electors potentially absent from their electoral division during the election period. Information cards urged absentee electors to request a Special Ballot early in the election period.

Political Party and Campaign Outreach

Elections Alberta staff provided information relevant to political parties, candidates and their volunteers at three campaign colleges prior to the start of the election period. Each of the three sessions was attended by political party representatives seeking to gain a better understanding of the statutory requirements.

In addition, three open sessions were offered: in Calgary, Edmonton and Red Deer. In total, approximately 400 candidates, chief financial officers, official agents and other political party representatives attended the open sessions. These sessions provided information on registration requirements, contribution limits, issuance of official contribution receipts, restrictions on spending activities, advertising, filing of nomination papers and filing of financial statements.

Election Period Outreach

Public outreach throughout the election period used various communication channels. Electors had access to election information via social media for the first time, in addition to other, more traditional methods.

- Direct mail to residences: Cards containing elector information were mailed to residences across Alberta.

Approximately 1,506,000 residences received a mail-out in the first half of the election period. Electors were notified of the dates and times for voting, along with contact information for obtaining further election information by telephone, email or online.

Approximately 1,302,400 residences received a mail-out in the last half of the election period. Electors received contact information for their local returning officer, along with more detailed information, including the locations for voting at the advance polls and on polling day.

Distribution of cards was limited to those residences with a physical (geographic) and mailing address. Mail-outs to residences in rural areas specified that polling place information was based on the physical location of the residence, often identified by a legal land description. This notified electors to contact Elections Alberta, or the returning officer, if the physical (geographic) address had changed.

- Elections Alberta Website: Expanded online resources were available around the clock. Electors were able to determine where to vote and whether they were registered. Approximately 18,000 electors added or updated their elector information for inclusion on the List of Electors.
- External Websites: Banner advertisements appeared on popular online news sites to provide a link to the Elections Alberta website. Over eight million display ads were delivered over a three-week period, inviting users to "click through" to the Elections Alberta main page. In addition, twenty-six million impressions were delivered on Facebook.

The click-through rate was four times the average; very successful by industry standards. A total of almost twenty thousand users accessed online election information via these sites.

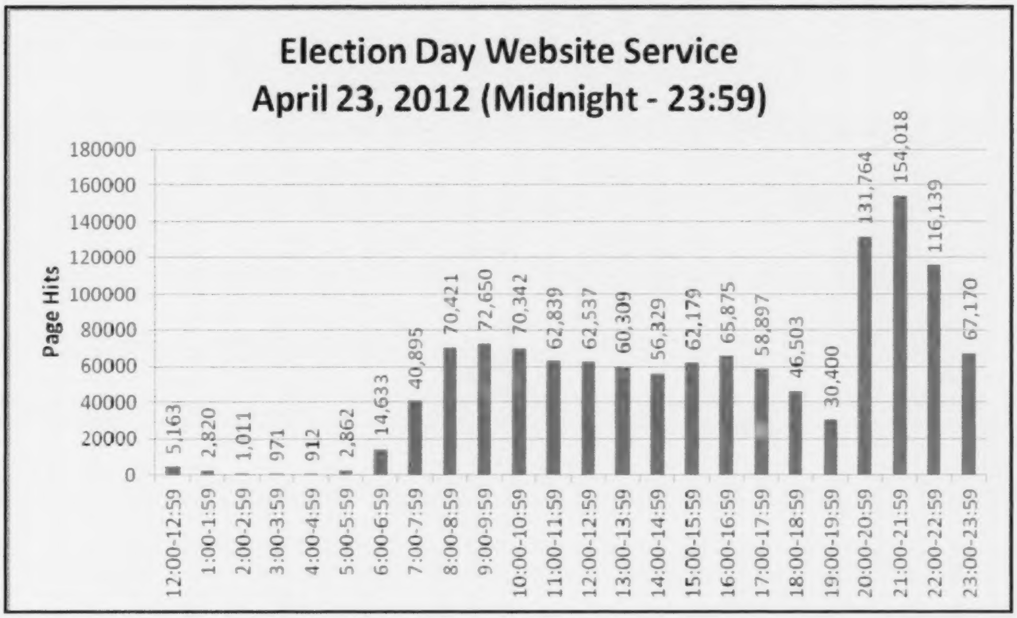
For the first time, electors could apply online to work at the polls and could submit a Special Ballot request online.

The website also supplied general information on eligibility requirements, dates and times for voting and options for electors who were away from home or who had other unique needs. The general information included notification of recent legislative amendments that affected electors, including new vouching rules and identification requirements for electors whose names were not on the List of Electors. Contact information for Elections Alberta and the returning officers was available to allow electors with specific questions to communicate in writing, in person, by phone or by email.

At the close of polls on polling day, the website provided unofficial results on a poll by poll basis. These results were posted by returning officers as unofficial counts were completed and communicated by election officers across the province.

The website was accessed over 1.25 million times on polling day, with just under 800,000 hits occurring by 8 p.m. Albertans were provided with flawless service as a result of a move to an independent server, and constant monitoring by dedicated staff.

The following chart shows website activity on polling day.



- Handheld Devices: Elections Alberta's where-to-vote website was designed to accommodate access by handheld devices for electors who wished to obtain general information, or determine where to vote, using this application. Quick response (QR) codes were included on print materials to allow users of handheld devices to capture the URL for the website.
- Twitter: Elections Alberta used Twitter for the first time as another method to keep Albertans informed. The number of followers started out at 65 as of March 14, and nearly doubled in ten days to 114 by March 25, the day before the writs of election were issued. Followers joined regularly; ultimately reaching 763, with 218 new followers joining on polling day alone. On polling day, 99 followers re-tweeted the message inviting electors to "Vote today" to reach 43,775 followers.
- Radio: Radio advertisements provided basic information and additional contact information for electors to determine where to vote. Advertisements appeared on 38 radio stations and are estimated to have reached over 1.5 million electors.
- Telephone: The voter information call centre was twice the size of the call centre for the 2008 election. Call centre staff were provided with enhanced resources to prepare for the anticipated high volume of calls; most often guidance on where and when to vote. Staff were available from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on weekdays, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekends and 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. through the advance polls and on polling day.

  Operators assisted over 28,000 callers throughout the election period, an increase of 10,000 from the 2008 election. Operators kept pace with the volume of calls, including the 8,000 calls received on polling day.

- Email: Electors were provided with a dedicated email address to communicate with Elections Alberta. Electors received 1,800 personal responses to their specific concerns or questions, including 900 responses sent on polling day.
- Newspapers: As in previous elections, electors could consult local newspapers for information on polling places, dates and times for voting, in accordance with sections 55 and 70 of the Election Act. Newspaper advertisements in 121 newspapers provided information on voting opportunities for electors who were away from home or who had other unique needs.

  In Calgary and Edmonton, advertisements were replaced by newspaper inserts in all daily newspapers. Inserts were delivered by a flyer delivery service to reach electors without a daily newspaper subscription.

Legislative and Procedural Changes

Elections Alberta is responsible for the conduct of provincial elections and for managing the registration, financial activities, reporting and disclosure of political entities, in accordance with the Election Act and the Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act. Over one hundred amendments were approved by the Legislative Assembly in April 2010, representing significant changes to both statutes. Forms, guides and training material were prepared to communicate the changes to electors, election officers and political participants.

Legislative changes focused on increasing electors' accessibility and protection and on enhancing accountability and disclosure of political participants. Changes included:

- Removing the restrictions for use of advance poll voting, so all electors were able to vote in person over a four-day period, at their convenience
- Reducing the identification requirements for electors who are not on the List of Electors to one piece of identification, in most cases, and allowing for vouching in lieu of identification
- Increasing the security and integrity of the Special (mail-in) Ballot process
- Streamlining the voting process for electors in treatment centres, supportive living facilities and at regular polling places
- Increasing the disclosure requirements for sponsors of election advertising, including third parties that sponsored election advertising
- Increasing the security of electors' personal information
- Allowing for the testing of new voting technologies
- Developing a process for the elimination and reporting of candidates' campaign deficits
- Broadening the investigative powers of the Chief Electoral Officer

One additional amendment was passed in December 2011 to establish a fixed election period. Preparing for an election that would be conducted between March 1 and May 31 allowed for timely advance planning and for the establishment of returning officers' offices prior to the election period. This amendment allowed returning officers to provide immediate, effective support to electors and political participants upon the issue of the writs of election and allowed for timely public communications via the Internet, the radio and direct mail.

Challenges

Albertans went to the polls on new electoral division boundaries. This message was communicated to electors who had become accustomed to the names and geographic boundaries of provincial electoral divisions that were in place since 2004.

Additional communications were developed to address the confusion that sometimes occurs because of differences between the boundaries, polling places and procedures followed at the municipal or federal elections.

Particular emphasis was placed on the principal elements of the voting process to mitigate any possible confusion. Electors were able to confirm their eligibility, and to determine where and when to vote, through a broad spectrum of communications options.

The diverse group of electors across the province presents a number of challenges as we strive to deliver effective services to meet the electoral needs of Albertans. New resources are assessed on an ongoing basis and those deemed effective are made available to electors. New resources in 2012 included magnifying screens for electors with visual impairments, easy-grip pencils for those with limited dexterity, and translations of voter eligibility requirements for new Canadians who are more familiar with another language.

Challenges inevitably arise in managing an event of this scope, in spite of thorough advance preparations. Power outages can occur and telecommunication cables can be severed, delaying necessary communications. One polling place was flooded, requiring the notification of candidates and the posting of signage to direct electors to an alternate location. A suspicious-looking package resulted in the temporary closure of an access road to another polling place; the package was identified as a bag of refuse and voting continued following a brief disruption.

The majority of complaints received throughout the election period related to unwanted calls received via automated telephone messaging services. Current technology provides a cost-effective means to rapidly communicate a standard message to thousands of electors following the uploading of telephone numbers into a central system. Many recipients of the “robo-calls” contacted Elections Alberta to complain about the time that calls were received, the frequency of the calls, and the fact that the caller’s name and contact information were not always supplied. Recipients of the unwanted calls were particularly incensed when they continued to receive calls after contacting the sponsor of the call and asking to have their name removed from the calling list. At the same time, some campaigns complained that they were the target of negative messaging, or that the “robo-calls” erroneously implicated them in making the calls. These calls were sometimes difficult to trace and resolution was not always achieved during the election period. Future policy development will include input provided by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission and other stakeholders. Political participants and electors will be informed of the regulations and the resolution process.

Additional challenges arose with the administration of the Senate Nominee Election. It was important to notify electors of the event and to provide clear instruction for marking ballots. Unlike the Provincial General Election where one candidate was selected, electors were able to mark their ballots for up to three candidates.

This challenge extended to the training of election officers who were called upon to answer questions related to the Senate Nominee Election and, later, to count the ballots. Voting directions were provided verbally by election officers, in written form via the posters in each polling place, and in a multilingual written translation for electors who required that service.

The timely payment of over 16,000 front line election officers is a significant administrative challenge. For the first time the returning officers had access to online payment approval within the Alberta Comprehensive Election System (ACES). Cheques were produced for 95% of election officers within two weeks of polling day.

Administering the two parallel events, and particularly tabulating the unofficial results, was identified by front-line election officers as the most challenging task related to the 2012 electoral event.

Election Recruitment and Training

Returning officers are assisted by two full-time staff during the election period: an election clerk and an administrative assistant. The election clerk, appointed by the Chief Electoral Officer, shares many of the responsibilities of the returning officer and replaces the returning officer if he or she is unable to fulfil the responsibilities of the role. The administrative assistant assists with the Special Ballot poll and data management. All three positions received standardized training by Elections Alberta.

Returning officers are responsible for the recruitment and training of the front-line election officers who staff the advance polls and polling day polls. As with enumeration recruitment, they target community groups and contact electors with enumeration or election experience. In many cases, returning officers recruited well over 200 election officers.

Returning officers received educational resources to equip them to train election officers: supervisory deputy returning officers, registration officers and deputy returning officers. In many cases, returning officers trained well over 100 election officers.

In total, returning officers trained approximately 9,500 electors to staff the polls on polling day. This demanding task is accomplished by returning officers in the latter part of the 28-day election period.

Deputy returning officers trained approximately 6,200 electors to serve as poll clerks, as part of a staff complement of almost 17,000 front-line election officers trained and deployed to serve Albertans across the province. As with the enumeration, the election is a very labour-intensive process: 80% of the election budget is allocated to election officers' fees and associated costs.

With each election, new voting options are introduced to accommodate electors' needs. As voting options increase, the demands on election officers become increasingly complex. In addition to previous responsibilities, election officers were responsible for the conduct and counting of the Senate Nominee Election and the administration of the vouching process established to accommodate electors without identification who were not on the List of Electors. Options will be examined to enhance the training and support provided to election officers to better equip them for performing multiple tasks and completing various prescribed forms over the course of a 14-plus hour work day.

Nominated Candidates

The Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act requires all political parties, constituency associations and candidates to be registered with Elections Alberta.

Each candidate must register with Elections Alberta prior to raising or spending money to help get elected. Candidates register by filing an Application for Registration, in accordance with the Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act.

The Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act provides for the public disclosure of contributions and expenses by registered political entities (political parties, candidates and constituency associations), both in the Public Files maintained by Elections Alberta and on Elections Alberta's website. Summary information will also appear in the 2012 Annual Report of the Chief Electoral Officer.

The Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act also prescribes contribution limits. Any eligible person, corporation, trade union or employee organization may contribute up to a maximum of $2,000 to each registered candidate during the campaign period. The campaign period commences on the date the writs of election are issued by the Chief Electoral Officer, and ends two months after polling day.

The Alberta Income Tax Act provides a system of tax credits for contributions to registered political entities.

Example of Income Tax Credits

Amount Contributed	Calculation	Income Tax Credit
$ 200.00	75% of $200.00	$ 150.00
1,100.00	$150.00 + 50% of $900.00	600.00
2,300.00	$600.00 + 33 1/3% of $1,200.00	1,000.00

Candidates registered under the Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act were eligible to file nomination papers with the returning officer in the electoral division in which they wished to contest the election. Nomination day was Monday, April 9, 2012. That was the last day on which prospective candidates were able to file nomination papers and submit their $500 nomination deposit.

When nominations closed on Monday, April 9, 2012 at 2:00 p.m., 431 candidates had registered under the Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act and 429 had filed nomination papers in accordance with the legislation.

No candidate withdrew following the close of nominations and no candidate was elected by acclamation.

All candidates registered under the Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act are required to file a candidate campaign period financial statement, including those candidates who did not file nomination papers with a returning officer. For the first time, candidates' campaigns were eligible to have their $500 nomination deposit refunded for filing their financial statement by the prescribed deadline of August 23; four months post-polling day. A total of 418 candidates met the statutory filing deadline; 416 candidates had nomination deposits refunded to their campaign accounts and two candidates did not file nomination papers or a nomination deposit.

A breakdown follows:

	Number registered with Elections Alberta	Number nominated through returning officer	Number filed by due date
Alberta Liberal Party	87	87	82
Alberta New Democratic Party	87	87	84
Alberta Party	38	38	37
Alberta Social Credit Party	4	3	3
Communist Party – Alberta	2	2	2
Evergreen Party of Alberta	25	25	25
Progressive Conservative Association of Alberta	87	87	86
Separation Party of Alberta	1	1	1
Wildrose Alliance Party	87	87	87
Independent	13	12	9

Forfeited nomination deposits were paid through Elections Alberta to the Minister of Finance for deposit to the General Revenue Fund.

Special Ballot Polls

By legislation, a Special Ballot poll was established in each of the 87 electoral divisions. The poll is established to facilitate voting for electors who are not able to vote at the advance polls or on polling day. It is often used by electors who are physically incapacitated or who travel, work or attend an educational institution outside of their own electoral divisions for extended periods. Availability of the Special Ballot was advertised in newspapers and on the website.

Special Ballot brochures were distributed to stakeholder groups whose members tend to use this voting option. Information was distributed on a proactive basis to trade unions, travel clubs, post-secondary educational institutions and the Canadian Armed Forces to allow them time to share information with their membership. This increased awareness directed electors' early attention to this voting option.

The Special Ballot is often viewed as a mail-in ballot, but ballots may also be completed in the returning officer's office or hand-delivered by an individual at the elector's request. While every effort is made to provide a Special Ballot to an elector, it is a legislative requirement that an elector must request his or her own Special Ballot: it cannot be requested on his or her behalf by another person. This is to ensure that the Special Ballot is issued to, and completed by, the appropriate elector.

Electors may request a Special Ballot in person, by telephone, by facsimile, by electronic mail, in writing, and for the first time, online via a secure Internet connection. The Special Ballot package uses a series of envelopes to protect the confidentiality of the ballot, and contains an elector's declaration identifying the reason for use, along with an undertaking confirming that the elector has not yet voted and will not vote a second time.

In the same way that each elector must vote within his or her own electoral division, each elector must request a Special Ballot from the returning officer in his or her own electoral division and return it to the office from which it was issued. Although Special Ballot requests may be made electronically, printed Special Ballots are provided to and completed by electors.

For the Provincial General Election, electors were able to request a Special Ballot at the beginning of the election period and were able to vote for the candidate or political party of their choice. This helped to ensure that electors had adequate time to complete and return the Special Ballot by the close of polls on polling day. Although express mail was used for the timely distribution of Special Ballots, a portion of Special Ballots was received after the close of polls on polling day and were rejected, in accordance with legislation. Alternate distribution methods are being examined.

Following a recent legislative amendment, electors completing Special Ballots were required to provide appropriate identification to verify their identity and place of ordinary residence. This added security measure enhanced the integrity of the Special Ballot process.

A total of 16,169 valid Special Ballots were received by the close of polls on polling day, providing a valuable option to electors who otherwise may have been unable to exercise their franchise.

Advance Polls

By legislation, advance polls were established in at least one location in each electoral division on the Thursday, Friday and Saturday prior to polling day. The Election Act prescribes that up to four advance poll locations may be established to ensure elector convenience in electoral divisions that cover a large geographic area. The Election Act also allows for additional locations to be established, if deemed necessary by the returning officer and approved by the Chief Electoral Officer. Three electoral divisions had five advance poll locations and one had six, to ensure ease of access for electors.

Advance polls were open from 9:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 19, Friday, April 20 and Saturday, April 21, at sites that offered level access. Returning officers' offices were used, where appropriate.

Two recent legislative amendments were enacted to increase accessibility to voting. Previously, electors were able to vote at the advance poll only if they were unable to vote on polling day by reason of physical incapacity, absence, or participation as an election officer, candidate, official agent or scrutineer.

For the first time, electors could vote at the advance polls simply as a matter of convenience. Returning officers increased the number of staff and advance polling stations to prepare for the anticipated increase in use of this voting option: in many cases, the number of polling stations doubled.

For the first time, returning officers were directed to establish advance polls in locations that would ensure no electors would have to travel 100 kilometers to vote at an advance poll, unless the cost was unreasonable to do so. This was achieved in all cases, with the exception of an area in the electoral division of Peace River, where the advance poll in La Crete was up to 200 kilometers away from neighbouring populated communities.

As a result of the legislative change, electors were no longer required to complete an advance poll oath prior to voting. This served to streamline the voting process for all advance poll voters.

The level of interest in advance poll voting was underestimated in some cases, which made advance polls very busy, particularly due to the conduct of two elections on polling day. Additional staff were deployed to assist in the conduct of the advance polls and overall staffing needs will be carefully assessed prior to the next election.

A total of 179,820 valid ballots were cast at 222 advance polls. This is a significant increase, almost tripling the 64,332 valid ballots cast at 162 advance polls during the 2008 election.

Mobile Polls

By legislation, mobile polls were established on polling day in treatment centres and in supportive living facilities with ten or more resident inpatients or electors, where consultation with facility staff determined the service to be appropriate.

All electors identified by the facility staff as being well enough to vote are eligible to vote in the electoral division in which the facility is located. In accordance with legislation, facility staff can restrict participation to the deputy returning officer, poll clerk, interpreter and facility representative, if appropriate for the well-being of the residents or inpatients.

Mobile poll brochures were distributed to facility administrators early in the election period to inform them of the mobile poll process. Posters were provided to inform residents of the time and location for mobile polling within their facility to allow electors to plan appropriately for polling day.

Mobile polls accommodated electors within the facilities during hours agreed upon by facility staff. Polling was conducted in a fixed location, or by going bed-to-bed, or by using both methods, to best meet electors' needs.

A total of 20,772 valid ballots were cast at 552 mobile poll locations.

Polling Day

By legislation, polls were open from 9:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. on Monday, April 23, 2012. There were 6,676 polling stations established across the province, each staffed by a deputy returning officer and poll clerk. Supervisory deputy returning officers were hired in polling places with multiple polling stations to provide guidance to electors and election officers, and to direct electors to the correct polling stations. Registration officers were hired to assist electors whose names were not on the Lists of Electors, which expedited the process for all electors.

Election officers were responsible for setting up the polling places, taking the vote, administering declarations to electors who were not on the List of Electors, conducting the unofficial counts for both elections, and returning all election material to the returning officers in a secure manner.

Election officers were also responsible for answering electors' inquiries and for working with the scrutineers appointed by candidates to observe polling day proceedings.

The role of election officers also includes the collection of information that will be used in updating the Register of Electors. Polling day is an excellent opportunity to collect new and updated information from electors for use in refreshing the Register and subsequent Lists of Electors.

At the close of polls, election officers conducted the unofficial count for the Provincial General Election and the Senate Nominee Election, and telephoned results to the appropriate returning officer. Communicating the results was delayed in some cases due to the high voter turnout and the challenges of conducting two unofficial counts.

Results were posted in returning officers' offices and were web-posted in their offices, as they arrived, for public access via the Elections Alberta website. Interested parties were able to view online poll-by-poll results, as well as results aggregated for the entire province, on a real-time basis.

Additions to the List of Electors

A total of 182,200 electors were added to the Lists of Electors during the revision period and on polling day. This figure includes electors who did not provide information during the enumeration, those who moved, and those who attained the age, residency or citizenship requirements following the enumeration.

Of this total, 17,372 electors added, updated or confirmed their information during the revision period, and approximately half updated their records online via Voterlink. This option continues to grow in popularity, as it allows electors to manage their own elector information at a time and location that is convenient to the elector.

While the addition of 164,828 polling day registrations appears to be a significant undertaking, only 25 electors, on average, were added to the List of Electors for each polling station. Not surprisingly, areas of high mobility or significant recent growth experienced the highest number of additions.

The Register of Electors contained 2,265,169 names following the Provincial General Enumeration and further enhancements. Names in the Register were used to create the Lists of Electors provided to registered political parties in January 2012, to meet the legislated requirement for receipt of a List of Electors in the fifth year following an election.

The number of names in the Register of Electors increased to 2,447,369 by the close of polls on polling day for the April 23, 2012 Provincial General Election. Names added during the revision period and on polling day were included at that point.

By July 2012, the Register of Electors contained 2,387,485 names. Electors' names had been removed from previous addresses, to avoid duplication. In addition, other data sources were used to delete decedents and electors who had moved out of province. At this point, the Register of Electors was used to prepare a "clean" List of Electors for registered political parties and Members of the Legislative Assembly, in accordance with section 19(2).

Accuracy of the Lists of Electors

Accurate, current Lists of Electors are essential both for campaigning and effective polling day administration. The Lists of Electors distributed to registered political parties in January 2012, and subsequently used at the polls, were compared to the post-election Lists produced in July 2012 to gauge accuracy.

It is recognized that an indeterminate number of eligible electors actively chose not to provide information to enumerators, opting for polling day registration instead. This convenient option appeals to electors who choose not to avail themselves of the various options available for advance registration. Legislation in Alberta permits this practice and polling places are staffed accordingly.

It is further recognized that an indeterminate number of eligible electors chose not to vote for any number of reasons, so it is acknowledged that the List of Electors does not contain every person who meets the elector eligibility criteria. At the same time, a benchmark must be established to gauge accuracy. For that reason, the assumption is made that the post-election Lists of Electors are 100% complete, since they include all electors who chose to participate during the enumeration, the revision period or on polling day.

Table 4, on page 38, illustrates the coverage (completeness) of the Lists of Electors prepared following the enumeration in comparison to the post-election Lists. Overall, the Lists were found to be 95% accurate. Only 5% of electors that appeared on the July 2012 Lists of Electors were added during the revision period and on polling day.

Official Results

The official results were announced by each of the 87 returning officers on Thursday, May 3, 2012.

No controverted election petition was filed for the election.

Judicial Recount

One judicial recount was requested, pursuant to section 144 of the Election Act. The unofficial count conducted on polling day in the electoral division of Calgary-Fish Creek showed a 74 vote margin of victory for the Wildrose Alliance Party candidate over the second place candidate, representing the Progressive Conservative Party.

Returning officers in all electoral divisions are required to perform an official count of ballots. This began on Wednesday, April 25, in Calgary-Fish Creek. The two leading candidates were present, or had representatives present, throughout the official count. The official results announced by the returning officer on Thursday, May 3, 2012 reduced the margin of victory for the winning candidate to 40 votes.

The returning officer's decision was appealed by the Progressive Conservative candidate, and a judicial recount of all ballots began on Thursday, May 10.

On May 10, upon conclusion of the judicial recount, The Honourable Mr. Justice C.S. Brooker certified the results to the returning officer. The Wildrose Alliance Party candidate was declared elected by a 38 vote margin of victory, subject to further appeal. No notice of appeal was served on the returning officer, and the Wildrose Alliance Party candidate was declared elected on Monday, May 14, 2012, in accordance with section 147.

Custody and Inspection of Election Documents

Polling day documentation for 86 electoral divisions was returned to Elections Alberta following the announcement of the Official Results, in accordance with section 142 of the Election Act. In accordance with that section, polling day documentation for Calgary-Fish Creek was retained by the returning officer until the conclusion of the judicial recount.

Section 152 authorizes candidates and their official agents to review all polling day documentation for their electoral division, with the exception of the ballots, in the thirty-day period following the publication of the names of elected Members of the Legislative Assembly in the Alberta Gazette, which occurred on May 31, 2012. Six candidates and official agents availed themselves of this opportunity.

During this same time period, candidates and their official agents were entitled to obtain copies of the Poll Books used at the election. Copies were requested on a cost-recovery basis by 148 candidates and official agents.

Production of the Post-Polling Day Lists of Electors

Elector information collected throughout the election period and on polling day was incorporated into the Register of Electors for preparation of future Lists of Electors. Administrative assistants were responsible for the data entry, under the supervision of local returning officers.

Lists were updated following the election by:

- moving electors from old to new addresses,
- adding first-time electors,
- correcting polling subdivision assignments, where necessary, and
- correcting names and addresses, where required.

Lists were made available to registered political parties and Members of the Legislative Assembly in July 2012, in accordance with section 19(2) of the Election Act. Data files were downloaded via secure Internet connection to safeguard the transmission of personal information. Restrictions for use prescribed by section 20 were provided to List recipients to ensure elector information is used appropriately. Penalties for misuse include fines up to $100,000, or a term of imprisonment up to one year, or both. For the first time, Lists were "seeded" with fictitious elector information for the purpose of tracing unauthorized use.

Continuous Register of Electors Management

Section 18 of the Election Act directs that both registered political parties and independent Members of the Legislative Assembly receive updated Lists on a regular basis. With any large database, it is a major challenge to compare and correct entries against other data sets. It is particularly challenging when some entries cannot be matched conclusively because of incomplete information. The challenge increases in the case of common names where birth date and previous address information is unavailable.

Maintaining the accuracy and currency of Lists of Electors is a high priority; increasingly so given the viability of future door-to-door enumerations. Continued emphasis will be placed on the economical acquisition of accurate, timely data for use in updating the Lists. Planning is also underway for the systematic collection of updated elector information directly from electors. All data collection efforts will continue to reconcile the need for updated information with the electors' rights to privacy.

Senate Nominee Election Highlights

On April 23, 2012, an election under the Senatorial Selection Act was conducted in conjunction with the Provincial General Election. Names appear in the order and as recorded on ballots. Names in bold print represent elected candidates. Percentage of voter turnout may not sum to 100% due to rounding.

Voter turnout is calculated based on the elector count on the post-polling day Lists of Electors. These Lists include the number of names on the Lists of Electors, with the additions of elector information from the revision period, online registrations and polling day declarations.

Statements of Official Results

The following poll-by-poll results have been taken directly from the Statements of Official Results completed by returning officers in the 87 electoral divisions across the province.

The maps shown are those described by the Electoral Divisions Act. The polling subdivision numbers refer to geographical areas identified on each of the maps.

Poll-by-poll results include the number of valid ballots cast for each candidate, along with the number of spoiled, declined and rejected ballots.

- Valid ballots are those that are clearly marked for one candidate in accordance with section 111 of the Election Act.
- Rejected ballots are those not counted because the elector's intent was unclear, or because no candidates or more than one candidate was selected, or because readily identifying marks were added.
- A spoiled ballot is one that was marked incorrectly by an elector, who then obtained a replacement ballot from the deputy returning officer. Spoiled ballots are not placed in the ballot box for counting.
- A declined ballot is one that was returned by an elector, who chose not to vote for any candidate listed on the ballot. Declined ballots are not placed in the ballot box for counting.

Poll-by-poll results display the number of eligible electors, including all electors who were on the January 2012 List of Electors, those who were added during the revision period, and those who were added by completing a Declaration of Elector on polling day. The percentage of voter turnout is calculated based on the total number of eligible electors at the close of polls on polling day.

Maps are available in electronic format at www.elections.ab.ca.
